FAILED DRUG HEIST ENDED IN MURDER

Man jailed for life for fatal knife attack

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A MAN who stabbed a rival drug dealer to death after the victim and an accomplice had gone to his Wood Green home to rob him of drugs has been jailed for life.

Jaydee Dorsett, 20, of Maryland Court, Maryland Road, attacked Isaiah Ekpalo, 18, during a fight in his flat, in which Dorsett was also stabbed.

The Old Bailey heard how Ekpalo and Lamont Roper, also 18, had gone to Dorsett's address by minicab on the afternoon of Friday January 9 with the intention of robbing him of drugs.

The duo forced entry and attacked Dorsett. During the frenzied struggle Dorsett stabbed Ekpalo who, with blood pouring from his wounds, fled with Roper to the waiting minicab, pursued by Dorsett.

As the cab tried to pull out into Wood Green High Road, Dorsett caught up with it.

CCTV footage showed Dorsett, armed with at least one knife, opening the front passenger door and making stabbing motions towards Roper, who was seated there.

Dorsett then tried to open the back passenger door, where Ekpalo was sitting, but only managed to open it partially.

Again, he made a stabbing motion before the door was closed and the cab pulled away.

The car took Ekpalo to North Middlesex Hospital, in Edmonton, where he died from chest wounds.

Police found Dorsett covered in blood inside his flat and recovered a number of knives – one of which had the blade snapped off, indicating the ferocity of the struggle.

Dorsett had denied murder, but on Tuesday last week he was found guilty and given a life sentence, with a minimum tariff of 12 years before he is eligible for parole.

Roper, from Upper Clapton, was sentenced on the same day to seven-and-a-half years after being found guilty of conspiracy to rob.

He was also jailed for three-and-a-half years after pleading guilty on the first day of his trial to two separate robbery offences at Finsbury Park station on April 10 2014 and to three months for failing to disclose the PIN on his mobile phone.

The sentences are to be served concurrently.

Detective Chief Inspector Dave Whellams, of the Homicide and Major Crime Command, said: "Whatever the circumstances of that day, Jaydee Dorsett did not need to pursue Isaiah Ekpalo and Lamont Roper into the street.

"Dorsett chose to continue the violence by arming himself and attacking the pair as they attempted to flee the scene in a minicab.

Jailed for life: Jaydee Dorsett

"The events of that day show the destructive consequences of carrying and using knives can have. One young man has been brutally murdered while another will spend a considerable amount of time in prison as a result of his actions."

Teen stabbed in phone row

A HORNSEY woman who repeatedly stabbed a teenage girl at a hostel at which they were both staying has been jailed for seven years.

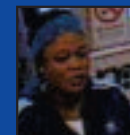

A telephone call made in the middle of the night to a wrong room on February 8 led to an altercation between Sapphire Huggins, 32, and the 18-year-old victim, Wood Green Crown Court heard on Monday.

The two were separated. Six hours later Huggins, of Tottenham Lane, asked to speak to the girl and stabbed her seven times. She was taken to hospital. Her injuries were not life-threatening.

Huggins was initially charged with attempted murder – but was tried for grievous bodily harm and found guilty.

Woman 'kicked boy repeatedly'

DETECTIVES have issued a photo of a woman they wish to speak to in connection with an assault on a young boy in a store.

She was approached by staff in Mothercare, in High Road, Wood Green, at 2.30pm on Saturday February 28 after the child with her was causing disruption. Shortly afterwards the woman was seen by staff and a member of the public to repeatedly kick the child to his body.

The suspect is described as black, aged in her mid-30s, of large build, wearing a blue sports jacket with white stripes along the arms and pushing a buggy.

Witnesses should contact the Haringey Child Abuse Investigation Team on 020 8721 6920 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Anger at £300,000 handout for restaurant

Food for thought: The former fire station

FURY has erupted at Haringey Council's decision to award £300,000 in grants and loans to a restaurant and approve the use of a listed former fire station as its premises.

Planning consent was granted last week to Chicken Town – a healthy-eating alternative to fast-food takeaways – for it to turn the grade II listed Old Tottenham Fire Station, in Town Hall Approach Road, Tottenham Green, into a restaurant.

Arts charity Create has received £90,000 from the council, together with a £210,000 loan jointly funded by Enfield Council and the Greater London Authority, from a pot of money earmarked for supporting business following the 2011 riots.

Opposition Liberal Democrat councillors, who voted against granting planning approval at last week's planning committee meeting, fear the terms of the loan – which require it to be repaid once Chicken Town has made a £50,000 net profit – could mean the loss of thousands of pounds of public money should the venture fail.

Bob Hare, Lib Dem regeneration spokesman, said: "Labour should be using this money to help change Tottenham and provide a better future for residents – and why should one chicken outlet be the beneficiary of such public funding?"

However, the council has strongly defended its decision saying the restaurant would create 40 new jobs and would restore, preserve and enhance the building and its heritage.

Labour councillor Joe Goldberg, cabinet member for economic development, social inclusion and sustainability, said: "Chicken Town is committed to creating 40 local jobs in the next three years, offering discounted meals to young people as a healthier alternative to fat-filled fast food and providing trainees with workshops and placements with some of London's top head chefs."

Mum is desperate for a home after eviction

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MOTHER who has undergone multiple operations after being diagnosed with a deadly cancer gene is battling to find a permanent home for herself and her autistic son.

Kari Payne, 38, is being forced to split her time between her parents' homes after she was evicted from her home in Bishops Cleeve, Enfield, in March because her then landlord wanted to redevelop the property.

Since then, she has spent time in hospital for reconstruction surgery following a double mastectomy after she was diagnosed with having a cancer-causing gene.

And just when she was getting on the road to recovery, Kari told the Advertiser that her ten-year-old son Sonny suddenly needed emergency hospital treatment for a condition that left him unable to use his legs.

"After my operation, I am in a lot of pain," she said. "I struggle to push the wheelchair and lifting him, or holding him down to feed him. I always need help with that."

In March, Enfield Council offered her a house in Edmonton, but she couldn't accept as "the windows did not even shut"

Kari was then offered a garden flat on the Elsing estate, in Bullsmoor.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

Looking for a new home: Kari Payne and her son Sonny, ten

“But there was no bath, only a wet room,” said the mum-of-one. “Sonny is severely autistic. Aside from the fact he is reliant on a wheelchair and cannot stand, there is no way I would be able to wash him in a wet room.”

But after turning down the offers of a home, Kari was referred to the Home Finders service to find a place in the private sector – but has been unable to find anything affordable in the area.

“Sonny has come on in leaps and bounds since he has been enrolled at Russet House School," she added.

A council spokesman said: "There is an acute shortage of housing in Enfield, but temporary housing was arranged with the housing staff working very hard to find a new home for Ms Payne and her son."

"While it is not possible to provide exactly what Ms Payne would like, we believe our most recent offer had all the facilities that she and her son need."

Preacher's son 'in Syria'

THE son of a notorious hate preacher is believed to have travelled to fight alongside Islamic State.

It has been widely reported that Mohammed Fostok, from Enfield, has left his home and gone to Syria.

He is the son of notorious radical preacher Omar Bakri Mohammed, who was dubbed the Tottenham Ayatollah in the wake of the 9/11 attacks for his rhetoric of support for terrorists.

Born to a wealthy Syrian family, Bakri sought refuge in the UK in the 1980s after studying in Egypt.

In Britain, he took over as spiritual leader of Islamic organisation Hizb ut-Tahrir before splitting from it and setting up the now-banned Al-Muhajiroun with radical preacher Anjem Choudary.

He travelled to Lebanon in 2007 after the July 7 bombings, leaving behind his wife and their children in Enfield.

He was arrested by Lebanese authorities in May last year and charged with membership of a terrorist organisation.

According to reports citing security services, his son, one of seven children the preacher left in Enfield, is believed to have travelled to his father's homeland last year and is living in a part of the country controlled by the militants.

Alan moves from Alpine chalet to the Big Apple

A PONDERS End man's magical modification of a miniature Alpine weather chalet has won him a trip to New York.

Tech wizard Alan Clark, pictured right, who confesses to enjoying nothing better than tinkering about in his workshop in his garden shed, beat 15 other finalists from across the globe in an engineering competition run by international electronics component suppliers Element 14.

The challenge was to give new life to everyday objects by "enchancing" them with the power of the internet and other technologies.

The 43-year-old IT consultant, of Woodstock Crescent, set about transforming a traditional miniature Alpine weather chalet he bought on Ebay.

Normally, the devices indicate the weather, using small rotating figures of a man (rainy/stormy) and a woman (sunny/bright) dressed in Bavarian costume, who come out or disappear back inside depending on the humidity, which is determined by the shrinkage of stretched catgut or string.

Alan removed the mechanism and turned it into a state-of-the-art enchanted chalet so that by tapping the roof it triggers a wi-fi connection to the internet, which in turn feeds an encoded signal back registering the temperature and weather forecast and operating a mechanism that brings one or other of the figures out.

It also has multi-coloured lights indicating the temperature with blue for cold, red for hot and white for frozen.

His prize is an all-expenses-paid trip to the Maker Faire, a gathering of "tech enthusiasts, crafters and tinkerers" in New York in September.

Georgina's ride on cue in the City of Angels...

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A HORSE riding champion has bagged three gold medals at one of the biggest sporting competitions in the world.

Georgina Maton, 26, who lives in Enfield, won gold in dressage, trail and equitation in the course of the Special Olympics, held in Los Angeles in California last week.

Georgina started begging her parents for horse riding lessons when she was just five years old.

Georgina was forced to deal with bullies at school and horse riding provided a refuge for her.

She worked her way up with her trainer Sarah Moreland, from wobbly beginner, to fully fledged equestrian athlete.

The gold medallist's proud mum Barbara told the Advertiser: "Georgina always has a big smile on her face after dealing with horses," adding that from an early age it was clear that she had an affinity with the animals.

And this has paid off after coach Sarah said of Georgina's performance in the dressage division that she rode "an incredibly harmonious test with an incredible 81 per cent score".

The triple gold is the culmination of two years of hard training since Georgina was selected to compete with the GB team at the games.

Although she celebrated in relatively restrained style with an all-American breakfast of pancakes and bacon, Georgina admitted she was "really pleased" – and added that she wished she could take home the horse she won her raft of medals with.

However, with a $30,000 price tag her mum and dad suggested she could put it on her Christmas wish list.

Following her stellar success for the GB team, Georgina's parents are hoping

Winner: Georgina Maton in action that a sponsor will come forward to help their daughter continue on the road to elite athlete status.

Bundles of fun in the sun

Hundreds enjoy children's day

THERE were giggles galore as hundreds of youngsters (and grown-ups) enjoyed fun in the sun in the spectacular parkland surroundings of Forty Hall, Enfield's Jacobean mansion, on Sunday.

The children's family fun day was organised as part of Love Parks Week, a nationwide celebration of the country's green spaces and was held in conjunction with the Friends of Forty Hall Park.

A variety of enjoyable fun activities and sports had youngsters queuing up to have a go.

Adrenaline junkies could try the recreational sport of zorb-rolling – over and over suspended inside a giant inflatable transparent plastic ball – while younger children could try hooking a plastic duck to win a prize, try their hand at croquet on the lawn, join in keep fit sessions, get creative in art workshops or simply have fun making new friends.

Invitation to local voluntary and community organisation to bid to co-locate with a local library

The Council has agreed an exciting Library Development Strategy to safeguard the future of libraries in the borough. As part of the strategy, the Council is seeking partner organisations from the voluntary and community sector to share the space at one of 3 libraries in the borough:

- Bullsmoor
- Enfield Island Village
- Ponders End

The Council will continue to run the library element of the space, providing a combination of staff and volunteers, IT equipment and resources. The co-location partner will be expected to bring added value services to the local community in support of the Council's strategic aims, open and close the building in line with agreed opening hours and facilitate universal access to the library service.

The bidding partner must be able to evidence how its proposal meets the following criteria:

- A locally focussed voluntary sector or community organisation that has an approved constitution or Memorandum and Articles of Association with a formally appointed Management Committee and fit for purpose policies and procedures
- Financial sustainability
- Delivering added value to the library for the benefit of the local community by meeting the Council's strategic aims of Fairness for All, Growth and Sustainability and Strong Communities with clear outcome measures
- Enhance the library service offer and support their objectives of:
 - ensuring universal access to the range of people who currently use libraries
 - supporting learning and skills
 - addressing digital and social exclusion
 - a co-ordinating centre for accessing information, advice and services

The agreement is expected to last two years from 1 January 2016 although Ponders End is subject to agreed timescales for the regeneration scheme.

An open day for prospective bidders is being held 10am-1pm on 19 August 2015 at the Dugdale Centre, Thomas Hardy House, 39 London Road, Enfield, EN2 6DS. To express an interest and receive an information pack, email Gill.Warnell@enfield.gov.uk Applications must be received by midnight 30 September 2015. Late applications will not be considered.

Harsh facts: The Reality of FGM, performed by actress Christina Oshunniyi

'Thousands' are victims of FGM

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS of women and young girls living in Enfield have undergone female genital mutilation (FGM) and thousands more may be at risk, according to figures released by the council.

Enfield Council believes that up to 3,500 women in the borough are living with the long-term effects of the mutilation whereby parts of the genitals are removed.

Sometimes, in the most extreme cases, once the labia and clitoris have been removed, the genitals are sewn up, leaving only a small opening for urination and menstruation.

The consequences and effects of the procedure can be deadly, with some young girls bleeding to death or contracting serious infections from unsterilised surgical equipment.

Those who survive can be left with fertility problems, cysts, childbirth complications, incontinence and severe pain during sex.

The process, associated with cultural norms rather than religion, is practised in parts of Africa and Asia.

FGM has been illegal in the UK since 1985 and since 2003, anyone caught taking a girl out of the UK to be "cut" in the traditional way can face up to 14 years in prison.

In 2015, the law was updated and it is now an offence, punishable by seven years in prison or a fine, to fail to protect a girl from FGM.

When this amendment came into force last month, it gave police officers the power to impose protection orders on girls they believe may be at risk – effectively stopping them from being taken out of the country. When school breaks up for the summer, anti-FGM campaigners warn extra vigilance is needed against families who plan to take their daughters to their native countries to be cut.

A year and a half ago, the local authority brought together a group of council officers, police officers, health and education experts and community leaders to look into the best ways of tackling the problem in Enfield.

As a result of this initiative, clinics are being set up in hospitals in the borough where women can receive FGM-specific treatment.

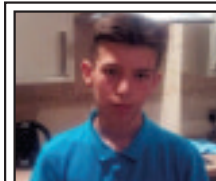

Health and social care experts have also been deployed in communities considered most at risk of perpetuating the practice and teachers are being trained in how to intervene if they believe one of their pupils is at risk of being taken out of the country for the purpose of FGM.

Nneka Keazor, cabinet member for public health, said: "Our information is based on population movements and census records."

At a special conference on FGM organised by the council and the Project ACEi Campaign, in March this year, campaigner and FGM survivor Alimatu Dimonekene said, "I do not want any girl to have to go through this torture."

"It is an assault on young girls removing parts of their genitals and subjecting them to a lifetime of discomfort, pain and infections. The mood is right for us to really do something about it."

Anyone worried about FGM can contact the NSPCC FGM helpline on: 0800 028 3550, or contact the Foreign Office about young girls taken abroad on 020 7008 1500.

Missing: Logan Austin

Police hunt for AWOL teen Logan

POLICE are appealing for help in tracing a teenage boy who has been missing for more than a week.

Logan Austin, 13, was last seen in Enfield at about 1.45pm on Monday last week.

He is white and 5ft 6ins, with short, dark brown hair.

Police believe he was wearing light blue jeans, black Adidas trainers, a grey jumper with Nike written in light blue across the front and a black leather cap at the time of his disappearance.

He is thought to be in the Harlow area of Essex.

Anyone with information on where he is can call Edmonton Missing Persons Unit on 020 8345 3332.

Supermarket still in melting pot at site for new housing

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

BUILDING work on a development which includes a mini-supermarket, as well as three storeys of "much-needed" affordable housing, is taking shape.

The construction work in Baker Street, Enfield, was given planning permission in 2013 when councillors gave the go-ahead for a Tesco Metro store to be built on the site – previously occupied by shops and flats, – with ten flats on the floors above.

At the time the council gave the green light to the project, there was uproar in the surrounding streets with many residents furious at the prospect of heavy goods vehicles loading and unloading in sideroads leading off Baker Street.

Following a delay of more than two years, it remained unclear whether the supermarket plan would become a reality because Tesco has been embroiled in a raft of financial difficulties for most of this year.

However, in a statement to the Advertiser, a Tesco spokeswoman confirmed: "We're still interested in the site at Baker Street in Enfield and will keep the community updated should more detailed plans come forward."

A council spokeswoman said that the ten housing units, which will be classed as "affordable", were badly needed in the borough.

She added: "This redevelopment is a four-storey block comprising two retail units on the ground floor and 10 self-contained flats on the first, second and third floors with balconies, and off-street parking at the rear."

Dog owner in a mess as council gets tough

A DOG owner has been fined for failing to clear up the mess after he allowed his pet to foul an Enfield street.

Jonathan James, 28, from Stamford Hill, north London, will have to pay more than £800 after being found guilty at Tottenham Magistrates' Court of failing to remove dog faeces.

He failed to pay the original £80 fixed penalty notice handed to him after he was spotted by two police community support officers allowing his dog to do its business opposite Enfield Grammar School, in Baker Street.

Daniel Anderson, Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment, said: "Our residents hate it when dog owners refuse to clean up after them and we completely understand their concerns."

"We work very hard to catch the people responsible and I am delighted that in partnership with the police we have managed to prosecute this individual."

Enfield Police
Borough Commander

I HAVE now had the privilege of being Enfield's borough commander for more than three years.

I'm proud of what's been achieved by officers and staff, working closely with key partners such as Enfield Council.

I can reflect that there have been 600 fewer burglary victims, 275 fewer robbery victims, about 1,500 fewer motor vehicle victims in the past year compared to 2011/12. It remains important that as we return to sunny, hot days we look after our property.

Have you locked your car and your house windows and is there anything left on display that could be stolen? A significant number of offences are from unlocked cars and houses.

It has been a challenging time with recent incident including the tragic death of a young man who was stabbed. Three men have been arrested and charged.

There are too many occasions when young people are carrying and using weapons and we must all consider what we can do to prevent another death or serious injury. Do you know where your children are, who they are with and what they are doing?

As we enter the school holidays, a lot of young people are thinking ahead to the next academic year, starting at new schools, starting exam courses, or even leaving school for employment or further education. Let's hope that with all of us taking more interest in what young people are doing, they will be safe and can become successful adults and contribute to making Enfield better.

Everyone's welcome to make use of the New River

C KINGHAM can be assured that the idea to utilise the New River as a cycle route ("New thinking on cycle plan", Advertiser, July 29) was fully discussed as an agenda item at a Cycle Partnership board meeting after the idea had been suggested.

Evidence included the direct walking experience of several members, including councillors, and a video recording from a cyclist riding the route.

For many reasons the concept was turned aside, but not before the board had identified that particular stretches were likely to be suitable for active travel and could be promoted as such.

The route, where it exists, is now available for walkers and cyclists. The Cycle Enfield consultation is now open and I suggest that all residents, businesses and visitors use the opportunity to make their views known on the proposals.

Adopting a dog from abroad can be a risk

A GOOD friend of mine recently went through hell and back after she decided to adopt a dog from abroad.

Like most good-natured people, she fell in love with a stray she'd spotted on the internet and arranged to adopt him – but it soon became clear that she was duped and hadn't been given all the necessary information beforehand.

As a professional pet carer and owner of Petpals Hendon and Hampstead, I'd like to offer some advice to readers who are thinking of doing the same, in the hope that they can avoid what can literally be a painful process.

Re-homing a stray dog can be hugely rewarding, but it's important to know exactly what is involved before you make your final decision.

Firstly, you need to take a close look at the dog's shelter and make sure they are a legitimate organisation or charity.

Sadly, not all rescues have the welfare of their dogs at heart, but even some that mean well take shortcuts.

These sorts of organisations will not carry out any assessments or health checks and because of this some very inappropriate matches have been made between unsuitable dogs and unsuspecting new adopters.

Secondly, it's crucial you know whether the dog has had all necessary vaccinations. The rescue should send you a pet passport, where all vaccinations are logged.

Never accept a dog from a country which is outside the pet passport scheme. They are not in the scheme for a reason.

All dogs travelling abroad must have the rabies vaccination as well as shots to protect them from parvovirus, distemper, leptospirosis and infectious canine hepatitis.

If you suspect that your dog may not have received all the vaccinations, please ask your vet to check. The peace of mind is well worth the extra expense.

Thirdly, you need to ask the rescue for the dog's known health issues, but be aware that there may be undiagnosed health problems.

Be prepared in case there's the possibility of extra expense for medications and arrange pet insurance for your dog as soon as he or she arrives.

Street dogs are nearly always malnourished and some are injured or seriously unwell.

Lastly, be mindful about the dog's behaviour. If you adopt or foster through a recognised charity, you will receive support should you need it – but if you take in a dog from an independent shelter, you'll be on your own and will have to pay for professional advice.

Some dogs settle in easily, but most find their new environment terrifying after life on the streets and need a great deal of patience, help, consideration and compassion while they learn to cope and adjust.

Be cautious if you already have a dog in the family. Strays have often had to fight for food and may bring that behaviour into your home.

If you're considering taking in a dog from abroad, the best thing to do is to go and collect the dog yourself. Check out they have all the relevant papers and pet passport in person.

Please think about the points I've made and seek help if you need it. It's worth it if the right match is made.

This explanation does not add up

A FEW weeks ago, after repeatedly noticing that stationary police cars that had been called out had their (diesel) engines running, often for more than three hours, I asked the officers why their engine was kept running for such a long time.

I subsequently discovered that the computers on board police cars, which are connected to the police national computer, take about four minutes to be rebooted.

It is up to the officers to decide whether to leave their engines running or not, depending on why they have been called out.

Air pollution in London is now the highest of any European capital city. More than 9,500 Londoners die from the effects of air pollution each year, according to a study by The Guardian newspaper.

This is extraordinary. Surely an alternative can be found – how about a second battery on board? Many cars have the possibility of connecting a laptop.

One would assume that the police should be setting a good example as far as switching off the motors of stationary vehicles is concerned.

This is not a laughing matter

HAVING read about the number of young people trying nitrous oxide (a legal high) and of some dying as a result, it came as a shock to see strewn along from the Cockfosters Road entrance to Trent Park on Sunday morning up to the car park at least a dozen canisters of a similar design to those shown to contain "laughing gas".

This is the first time that I have noticed canisters of this type and I hope that when they are cleaning up Enfield parks service look into this and take appropriate action to warn the young of the dangers of trying it.

New home: The Urgent Care Centre at Chase Farm Hospital

Centre moves into new temporary home in advance of redevelopment

RESIDENTS with minor ailments and injuries can now receive treatment in the new, temporary home of the Urgent Care Centre at Chase Farm Hospital.

The centre, which deals with non-emergencies, replaced the A&E unit after it was closed in December 2013.

Until last night (Tuesday), it was located beside the Highlands wing, opposite the high-rise car park at the hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield.

However, while a multi-million-pound redevelopment takes place over the next two years, the centre will be located opposite the Hunters Way entrance to the hospital.

The centre will remain open during the usual hours, from 8am to 10pm, throughout the redevelopment works which trust bosses anticipate will finish in spring 2018.

The move comes days after the charity arm of the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust announced a large-scale fundraising drive in partnership with Heathrow airport in aid of research into pancreatic cancer.

Throughout August passengers travelling through Heathrow can contribute to finding new methods of diagnosing the cancer and researching ways of using stem cells to create new pancreatic tissue.

Shops and restaurants including Leon, Pret A Manger and Giraffe will all donate cash from each sale to the cause as will upmarket grocers Fortnum and Mason.

The air traffic controllers for Heathrow will also make a donation of 10p for every flight which lands one minute late or more in August and 1p for every flight which lands on time.

Gang planned to smuggle drugs valued at £1.4m

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO men from the borough have been convicted of involvement in a plot to smuggle and supply drugs.

Gavin Leon, 49, of Crestbrook Avenue, Palmers Green, and Douglas Dinsmore, 51, of Beaconsfield Road, Enfield Lock, together with two others from Barnet and three more from Hornsey, were among 11 men sentenced at Luton Crown Court on Friday on charges of conspiring to import and supply cocaine and cannabis.

Police foiled the gang's plot to smuggle £1.4million worth of cocaine into the country from Columbia via South Africa using covert recordings.

They had previously stopped a van containing cannabis shipped from Amsterdam, in Holland, plus £87,000 in cash, as it left Tilbury Docks.

Paul Jordan, 49, from Barnet, and David Leitz, 63, a Slovenian national, were each sentenced to 18 years after being found guilty by a jury of conspiracy to smuggle cocaine. Raffaele Contato, 34, from Cricklewood, and Colin McNamara, 50, from Hornsey, were jailed for 16 and 12 years respectively on the same charge.

The seven other accused were convicted on charges relating to the importation and supply of the cannabis.

Among them was Leon, 49, who together with David Cumbarbatch, from Hornsey, and Luigi Salvone, 66, from Hornsey, was jailed for two years and two months after pleading guilty to conspiracy to supply cannabis. Dinsmore, 51, was given a 12-month suspended sentence and ordered to do 150 hours' unpaid work.

Judge Phillip Bartle described it as a "sophisticated and professional operation".

Jailing the men, he said: "I am satisfied you were all involved solely for financial reward."

"Although the devastating effects of drugs are well-known, at no point in your conversations do any of you refer to – let alone show concern for – the harm caused by drugs."

The great outdoors: Participants prepare for last year's event

Preparing to answer the call of the wild

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A SURVIVAL trek through the wilds of an expanse of parkland on the outskirts of the borough will show participants the tricks to living off the land.

The Survival Walk through Trent Park, Cockfosters, will be led by outdoors enthusiast Alan Mitellas, who will teach walkers how to explore off the beaten track and think for themselves if they fall into unfamiliar territory.

Alan heads up action and adventure company Black Rainbow Events and the walk has been supported by Enfield Council's residents' priority fund.

With the school holidays in full swing, many parents might be toying with the idea of letting the children roam free while the sun shines – and Alan insists that this course is the ideal opportunity for people of all ages to pick up some basic skills to stay safe when out in the wild by themselves.

He added: "Survival is such a popular subject because it gives people the confidence to explore the outdoors and to think for themselves if they are lost, stranded or injured in a natural environment.

"We've developed our survival walks to be fun. However, you never know if you might need the skills you have learned in a real-life situation one day, so it's well worth joining us."

The walks, the first of which takes place on Sunday August 16 are free and the only equipment walkers are asked to bring are comfortable shoes, as well as what Alan describes as "the most important piece of survival kit – your brain".

Children are welcome to join in, but they must be accompanied by an adult.

The walk will last for about two hours. No booking is required – anyone wishing to take part can turn up for 10am at the car park beside the café at the entrance in Cockfosters Road.

Anyone wanting more information on the walk can email blackrainbowevents@gmail.com or like Black Rainbow Events on Facebook.

Parks retain their Green credentials

Green light: Grovelands is one of the parks to retain the award

EIGHT of Enfield's parks have retained their Green Flag status – the benchmark national standard for parks and green spaces in the UK.

The Green Flag awards scheme recognises the best open spaces in the country.

Enfield is one of the greenest boroughs in London and the council manages 705 hectares of parkland, which includes 124 open spaces for the public to enjoy and explore.

Bush Hill Park, Trent Park, Jubilee

Park, Oakwood Park, Enfield Town Park, Forty Hall Park, Grovelands Park and Pymmes Park are the parks which retained their awards this year.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson said: "This is fantastic news for Enfield and especially for those successful parks.

"The parks staff, along with friends' groups, continue to do a marvellous job in ensuring our parks and open spaces provide first-rate facilities for everyone to enjoy. I urge residents to come out and see what is happening in our parks.

"Fantastic festivals, new greenways, outdoor gyms and guided walks are all there to be enjoyed.

"There is also the fabulous new wetlands at Pymmes Park, which not only tackles pollution, but is also a haven for wildlife.

"We will strive to retain our Green Flags and continue to work with friends' groups to improve the parks experience in Enfield."

Gambling den boss is told to repay £50,000

A MAN currently serving a jail term for money laundering in connection with the running of an illegal poker den in Palmers Green has been ordered by a court to repay £50,000 or have it seized.

The Big Bluff Private Members' Club, in Green Lanes, had been a front for an unlicensed gambling den until it was raided and closed in September 2012.

Its former owner Ahmet Melin, 35, from Cheshunt, Hertfordshire, was ordered by a judge to forfeit his £50,000 assets at a hearing at Wood Green Crown Court last week.

The court estimated he had made more than £400,000 during the time the club was operating and ruled that should any further assets be discovered he would have to forfeit those as well.

Melin was jailed for 15 months at the same court in April after being found guilty of five offences of money laundering.

He was prosecuted by Enfield Council after the local authority's licensing enforcement and trading standards teams, the Gambling Commission and the Metropolitan Police raided the venue.

They had suspected the premises was being used as an illegal poker

Playing its cards wrong: The club operated in breach of the gaming permit granted by Enfield Council club and not as a non-profit-making private members' club, as Melin had claimed, when the council had granted it a club gaming permit.

The trial heard that he had a long-standing involvement with gambling clubs and that the operation had been illegal from the outset with professional gamblers using the venue.

Commercial poker operations require a casino licence and the council's policy is not to issue them.

His trial also heard that instead of reinvesting money made in the private members' club, as the gaming permit stipulated, he was withdrawing cash, paying it into his own account and seeking to conceal it by falsifying accounts and the minutes of meetings. Because Big Bluff was running large poker tournaments and all the profits from them were illegal they amounted to criminal assets which could be seized under the Proceeds of Crime Act.

Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment, said: "I'm pleased that because of Enfield Council's tenacity the court has ordered this individual to forfeit £50,000 of this criminally obtained money and we will, of course, seek to recover more if we discover Melin has further assets, which have been concealed from the court."

"We will not tolerate illegal behaviour in Enfield and will continue to take firm action against anyone stupid enough to break the law."

"This decision clearly shows that crime does not pay and where people seek to make a profit from illegal activities we will always seek to recover that cash so the people involved do not profit from it."

Nick Tofiluk, the Gambling Commission's director of regulatory operations, said: "This is an excellent example of how a local authority with commission support is dealing with illegal gambling in whatever guise it is presented."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Just the ticket: Jim Blake has produced a book about buses and trams

Jim takes a bus ride back into history

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Shafi Musaddique
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

IT'S "all aboard" for Jim Blake, who has turned a lifelong passion for public transport into a new book featuring images of north London's lost buses and trams.

The 67-year-old, of The Rowans, Palmers Green, used photos he took with a colour cine camera dating back to 1965 as the inspiration to write about the bus industry in Britain.

His book, British Buses in 1967, takes a nostalgic look at the colourful fleet of buses throughout the country before the formation of the National Bus Company in 1968.

Born just five days before the nationalisation of railways and buses under Clement Atlee, Jim said his passion for vintage modes of transport started in an era when "all the kids wanted to be a tram driver".

Jim's first memories were steam engines running on the North London line near his then home in Canonbury, Islington.

He worked as an administrator at the Greater London Council, Haringey Council and Islington Council for more than 35 years, taking a short break to work as a bus conductor in 1974.

Jim turned down a promotion to inspector, thinking it unwise to take the job at a time when the surname Blake was synonymous with the fictional Inspector Cyril "Blakey" Blake in TV sitcom On the Buses, starring Enfield resident Reg Varney.

Jim, who has lived in Palmers Green for 33 years, went on to form the North London Transport Society, which gives the public a chance to ride classic Routemasters.

While his passion takes a nostalgic turn, he believes present bus services in Palmers Green are better than ever.

"I used to campaign to get more routes and frequent bus services in the area, which thankfully now has fantastic routes like the 102," he said.

Published by Pen & Sword Books, British Buses in 1967 is available in hardback, priced at £25.

Unions strike over 24-hour Tube proposal

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

COMMUTERS will face more disruption this evening as a second planned strike shuts down the London Underground network from 6.30pm until Friday morning.

All transport unions involved in negotiations with London Underground management, keen to push forward with the Mayor of London's plans for a 24-hour weekend Tube service, balked at the latest offer on the table – insisting that to accept would mean jeopardising the safety of passengers.

With the 24-hour service scheduled to start on September 12, weekend rosters are being prepared for drivers and staff.

However, representatives from the RMT, the drivers' union Aslef, TSSA and Unite have said that their members cannot accept the deal offered by management due to major concerns over passenger safety which, they argue, could be jeopardised by drivers losing rest and recovery days if they are pulled in at the last minute to plug staffing gaps.

They also argue that without essential weekend maintenance and improvement work, the network will not be safe for travel for weekend commuters whose routes to work will be delayed and even cancelled due to staffing shortages caused by drivers having to work through the night.

RMT secretary Mick Cash said: "Millions of weekday commuters, who fork out a fortune in fares, risk seeing their safety compromised and their services reduced to chaos so that a few thousand revellers can be shipped home in the early hours of Saturday and Sunday morning and experienced Tube managers know that. We urgently need to get talks convened with Tube professionals who understand the reasons behind a crisis which should never have been allowed to get this far."

Although the London Overground will not be affected, Transport for London bosses are warning that trains will be busier than normal and those commuters in Enfield who take the train before changing to Tube lines will need to make alternative arrangements.

Cockfosters station will be closed along with the other Piccadilly line stations in the borough – Oakwood, Arnos Grove, Southgate and Bounds Green.

TfL will be deploying 250 extra buses and transport bosses are advising that the network will be extremely busy this afternoon in the hours before the shutdown.

Trams, London Overground and the Docklands Light Railway will be unaffected by the strike, but may be busier than usual.

Keeping busy: Guild members work on their embroidery

A stitch in time

By Shafi Musaddique

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A STITCH-UP with plenty of laughs took place as embroiders weaved their way into the fabric of Forty Hall.

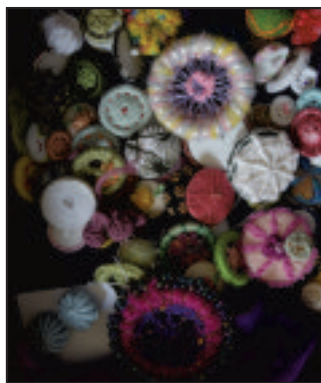

Celebrating national stitch day at The Big Stitch, the textile enthusiasts spun their way through Saturday afternoon to produce eye-watering embroidered delights resembling cakes and confectionery at the historic mansion, in Forty Hill, Enfield.

The open event was run by the Enfield and district branch of the Embroiders' Guild, part of an inter-connected group of organisations across the country keeping alive the art of needlework.

Programme secretary Dr Chris Fraser said the day ran "very successfully, bringing together enthusiasts whether they be first-timers or experts".

While participants were able to take away their creations, members of the public can see more handiwork at an exhibition celebrating the Victorian kitchen garden at the Forty Hall Estate from Tuesday September 1.

Colourful creation: Embroidered buttons

Finished article: Ailsa Bulger and Ursula Munro holding Crewel Work, which is being presented to Forty Hall to hang there

Full House as festival descends on Trent Park

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

DANCE anthems will rouse Oakwood from its suburban serenity on Saturday as mega-legends of electronic house music send 10,000 "party animals" wild.

Trent Park is the venue for the first 51st State festival featuring a gathering of some of the biggest and most influential artists of house music from both sides of the Atlantic in a celebration of the genre's roots.

James Benenson, creative director of Found, the promoters of the one-day festival, said: "I can't remember the last time that this many of the international founding fathers of house were brought together at one event."

"It really is something special and pulls together the threads of this hugely influential sound, exploring garage, disco, soul, dub, dance hall and more."

Past and present pioneers from Chicago and New York, together with UK acts, form a spectacular line-up with almost 60 artists and DJs performing club bangers and chart-toppers over six separate stages – five of them in covered tented arenas with the main stage in the open air.

Headlining on the 51st State stage are New York duo, Masters at Work, pictured, aka Louie Vega and Kenny Dope, two giants of the house scene who have been around since the 1990s and whose remix of Deep Inside remains a global house anthem.

Providing the vocals for that 1993 smash was New York diva Barbara Tucker, who coincidentally is singing live on the Back to 95 stage, which features other old skool artists, among them seminal figures of UK garage Grant Nelson and Scott Garcia. Other major mega artists appearing include New Yorkers David Morales, Dennis Ferrer and Tony Humphries and British legend Norman Jay.

Festival-goers are strongly advised to arrive by public transport as there are no car parking facilities.

Edgerton debut thrills

THE GIFT (15, 108 mins)

If every cloud has a silver lining, then the dark, stormy skies which rage over actor Joel Edgerton's disturbing directorial debut should yield a small fortune in precious metal.

On the surface, The Gift harks back to 1990s' psychological thrillers such as The Hand That Rocks The Cradle, which planted a murderous cuckoo in the nest of a picture-perfect American family.

Here, it's a socially awkward former classmate who worms his ways into the lives of an upwardly mobile couple and unsettles the lovebirds with impromptu acts of kindness.

Once the cogs of Edgerton's genre-bound narrative click into place, we discover the conventional moral boundaries between interloper and victims have been deliciously blurred.

Our sympathies see-saw between the quietly menacing antagonist and his targets, jolting violently in one direction in the closing minutes with a surprising final flourish that sends a trickle of cold sweat down the spine.

On more than one occasion, Edgerton tees up an act of bloodthirsty retribution that would have been par for the course in the 1990s and then defies our expectations at the last second.

The threat of violence hangs in the air, but rarely manifests on screen.

Simon Callum (Jason Bateman) and his emotionally brittle wife Robyn (Rebecca Hall) move back to his home town of Los Angeles, where he is eyeing a major promotion at a computer security firm.

During a shopping trip for furnishings, the Callums cross paths with Simon's old school chum Gordon Mosley (Edgerton), who still lives in the area.

"That was awkward," jokes Robyn as they leave the store.

The following day, the Callums find a bottle of wine from Gordon on their doorstep and Simon reveals the loner's nickname at school was Gordo the weirdo.

"Kids are mean," laments Robyn.

"Kids are honest," coldly retorts Simon.

In the days that follow, Gordon arrives unannounced at the house while Simon is at work and forges an uneasy bond with Robyn, who grows concerned about an unspoken incident involving the two men when they both attended high school.

"The bad things, they can be a gift. That's how I like to see things," professes Gordon.

Robyn enlists the help of friendly neighbour Lucy (Allison Tolman) to uncover the truth.

The Gift has fun toying with conventions of the genre, without straying too far from creepily familiar territory.

Edgerton sustains dramatic momentum as his script uncoils, eliciting strong performances from Hall and Bateman, the latter playing effectively against type as his character chokes on an ice cold dish of revenge.

The writer-director inhabits the film's plum role with cool detachment, lacing throwaway lines with a hint of malevolence to suggest that something wicked lurks behind his seemingly benign facade.

When the mask drops, we're unnerved to glimpse what lies beneath.

THREE TOP CLASS RACQUET SPORTS ON THE SAME EVENING!

Hazelwood Mens Tennis 1st team continued their successful season recently with a resounding victory over local rivals Bush Hill park by a margin of 22 sets to 2 in front of around 150 enthusiastic spectators. Even more impressive was the Hazelwood team featured five players under 20 with the youngest being 14.

Meanwhile indoors on the same evening the Hazelwood Squash 1st team were busy defeating Cumberland Squash Club 3-2 in a close fought encounter.

As if that wasn't enough entertainment, an exhibition Padel Tennis match took place on the brand new padel court featuring the UK No 1 player Mauri Andrini. Padel Tennis is a massive sport in South America and Spain and is now taking off in the UK. The new court at Hazelwood is one of the first to be installed in North London for a game which is rapidly gaining popularity.

TENNIS FINALS DAY

Sunday saw the Hazelwood Club Tennis Finals with the trophy for the Men's Singles going to Kamal Waldron. In the Mixed Doubles the winners were Rachel Ryan and Kamal Waldron and triumphant in the Men's Doubles were Rhys Bass & Ike Antwi. The U18 Championship was won by Luke Bryan and the U12's by Lola-Juliet Omram and Jamie Andrews. Needless to say on each occasion the bar was open, the BBQ was fired up and the children enjoyed the free Bouncy Castle.

PROPERTY

■ SALES ■ LETTINGS ■ NEW HOMES ■ COMMERCIAL

Summer is in full swing and I imagine we all secretly enjoy the respite on our roads as traffic levels reduce during the school holidays.

There has however been no such respite in the property market with demand continuing to outstrip supply across all price ranges and with some exceptional values being achieved for properties in highly sought after locations and offering excellent accommodation.

Recent reports from the leading property websites such as Rightmove have shown that the number of new properties coming to the market has eased and the cycle of sellers not putting their homes on the market because of a fear of not finding a property to purchase has come to the fore.

Whilst this approach may seem understandable, it actually works against the interests of the seller who find themselves under pressure to find, have less room for negotiation because they are not in a strong position to proceed and then find they are under pressure to sell and don't maximise the marketing and value of their own home.

Putting a property on the market before committing to a purchase enables a seller to fully explore the opportunities from a well marketed sale and to select the most appropriate buyer and price and, having done so, to use that strength of negotiating position to secure an onward purchase.

Many properties are only available to buyers who are in a position to proceed and so a wider section may well be available to select from too.

For those who entered the market earlier in the year, the summer is often a time for actually moving and using spare holiday entitlement to help get a new home set up and particularly for families to get established ahead of the new school year intake.

The lettings market is faster moving but the summer is often a time for students to get ready to occupy ahead of the new academic year.

With Bank of England Governor Mark Carney signalling likely increases in interest rates from 2016, now is an excellent time to secure a mortgage loan on one of the many excellent fixed rate schemes that are available.

Whilst interest rates are expected to rise very gradually and the base rate (currently 0.5%) is not expected to peak at above 2%, any increases will obviously impact on the cost of borrowing and so locking in a medium to long term deal at present rates looks appealing.

Why instruct Us?

Sales

- We use professionally produced photographs, floorplans and animated slideshow to ensure that buyers see the potential in your property.
- We provide a FREE EPC on every property we sell on a sole agency instruction
- As well as appearing on our new state of the art website your property will be featured as a premium listing on rightmove.co.uk

Lettings

- To guarantee you an honest and professional service we are accredited members of the RICS, ARLA and The Property Ombudsman scheme.
- To ensure that your let runs smoothly our dedicated and highly experienced management team are able to offer you the very best package to suit your needs.
- All viewings of your property will be accompanied to safeguard your security and allow us to gain immediate feedback.

Property tips

Replacing old, worn or outdated carpets can transform a room instantly; however pick flooring which is classic, neutral and easy to live with. If your carpets are a pale shade consider a runner in the hallway thus avoiding muddy marks being left by not so thoughtful visitors viewing your property.

ACCURATE VALUATIONS IN ENFIELD

The main factors that affect the price achieved for your home are likely to be size, location and fittings. However, there are innumerable other variations that can add significant value.

Valuing properties in West Enfield is not like valuing properties elsewhere. There are thousands of different styles and in some roads every other property is quite different to the next. The knowledge to appreciate these differences can only be built up over time.

At Ian Gibbs, our valuers have built up that knowledge with over 35 years of valuing properties in the EN1/EN2 area and that experience heightens the chance of you realising the full potential of your greatest financial asset.

For a free, no obligation valuation please call 020 8370 4800

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republishing or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement is placed.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 5% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.
- Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement. i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.
- Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.
- Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.
Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Turbocharged and ready to go

By Iain Dooley

CREATING an even faster, track-ready version of an existing supercar could be achieved very quickly – and cynically, an engine tweak here, a bigger wing there.

But that's not how McLaren has gone about creating the limited run 675 LT. The Long Tail name references the F1 Long Tails created for further dominance in motor sport, and this road car is designed to work on the track, too.

There's more power, but from an engine that is 50 per cent new, it's 100kg lighter, thanks to extreme measures such as a slimmed-down wiring loom, and improved aerodynamics also give the 675 a distinct look compared to its 650S sibling and some clever features including the track telemetry app so you can play at being an F1 driver.

McLaren's first road car of recent times was pretty and functional, but during the intervening years, the style and impact of each model has consistently improved.

The 675 LT is both dramatic and attractive, with the aero package adding to the race car look. It gives the bigger (and much more expensive) P1 a run for its money in terms of looks.

On the image front there's very little to touch the 675 LT. Not only does it benefit from being limited to just 500 examples, the racing pedigree can't be bought.

You'll want to leave the shopping at home, although if you're a bit of a show-off you can head for the local supermarket and return with 144 litres of goodies. More importantly, the cabin space is good. The dihedral doors open up and away and although the bucket seats are slim and require a little care, once you're in the driving position is excellent and the view out is good. There are also a few areas to store odds and ends, even cup holders, but you won't want to use those if you're exploiting the performance.

The 3.8-litre twin-turbocharged V8 delivers 666bhp (675PS in metric, hence the name) and 516lb ft of torque, and with a kerb weight of just 1,230kg the performance is utterly spectacular. A sub-three-second to 62mph is a given, but the 0-124mph time of 7.9 seconds is borderline ludicrous. It might be turbocharged but the engine is hugely flexible and responsive and in the right engine mode the quick-snap gear changes are accompanied by glorious pops from the exhaust.

The way the 675 LT behaves on road and track is equally stunning. With the scant restrictions of the track to worry about, you can revel in the grip, the balance and the delicacy of its behaviour, even at high speeds and with big G-forces.

There is a substantial premium for the 675 LT over the 650S, but it's worth remembering how much of the car is different. The unique exterior, revised suspension, lightweight parts and extra performance give a notably different feel from its sister car.

Even the telemetry system, which gives you the kind of data level that Mr Button and Mr Alonso get to play with at weekends adds to the experience. And say it quietly, but a car like this limited to just 500 worldwide won't lose too much money in a hurry.

Any lucky so-and-so in the position to buy one should be queuing up for a 675 LT. There's always a market for "everyday" supercars, but over and above that the track-focused versions are seemingly more in demand – the idea being you can drive your steed to the track, enjoy some hot laps and drive it home again, all without having to do anything other than fill it with fuel. You'll need to be on good terms with your McLaren dealer, however. Apparently, all 500 are spoken for.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies.

However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

COACH AIMS HIGH

Looking to improve: Mauricio Pochettino wants Tottenham to have a better campaign

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino has set his sights on Tottenham Hotspur enjoying an improved season in the Premier League.

Pochettino's first year in charge at Spurs saw them secure a fifth-placed finish, but they never really looked like qualifying for the Champions League and ended up 23 points adrift of champions Chelsea.

However, the head coach feels Tottenham do have the ability to do better this time around as they prepare to launch their campaign with a tough trip to Manchester United on Saturday. "We expect a very important season," he said. "The Premier League is very difficult and we need to compete with the size of the teams. We need to do better than last season."

"We expect to start with a very tough game at Old Trafford and we need to do better there than last season too."

Pochettino is also adamant that star striker Harry Kane is fully committed to the club ahead of the new season.

Kane was linked with a move to Manchester United over the summer following a dazzling campaign which saw him score 31 goals in all competitions, but he has decided to stay at White Hart Lane – and the head coach feels that the decision will benefit both club and player.

"Kane is excited to start the season with us," he said. "Any doubts about his commitment are gone. He is delighted to stay with Tottenham."

"He is a big supporter of the club. I think he is very happy and we are very happy he is with us. He is young but he is very mature. He is in a very good way to become one of the best strikers in the world."

"If you can do it in England and Europe, you are doing it in the best competitions in the world. I think we have very ambitious players now, the younger ones in the group – like Harry."

"We need to keep this mentality. We try to build a very strong group for the next few years to try and achieve important things. Harry can manage this pressure. He is young, but he is very mature. We don't have any doubts about Harry showing the same performances."

However, goalkeeper Hugo Lloris looks set to miss Saturday's match as he is still recovering from the wrist injury he picked up over the summer.

"The injury was an accident," Pochettino added. "He broke it close to the swimming pool. It was unlucky because he's a keeper."

"It's early to think he will play on Saturday but maybe he has a small chance. We don't decide yet."

Hornsey boosted by Weekes' heroics

PAUL WEEKES produced a stunning all-round display as Hornsey recorded a crucial 30-run win at second-placed Shepherds Bush on Saturday to climb to within seven points of the promotion spots in Division Two of the Middlesex County Cricket League.

Weekes' heroics began with the bat as he made 84 not out to help Hornsey recover from 86-6 to declare on 180-7.

Bush looked to be cruising to victory when they reached 60-0 in reply, but Weekes then ripped through their batting – taking 8-28 as the hosts crumbled to 150 all out.

Elsewhere, Highgate remain on track to claim the Division Three title after securing a 55-run win at Kenton.

Having won the toss and decided to bat first, the table-topping visitors posted a total of 251-6, with Hashen Ramanayake top-scoring with 96 and Neil Brunner and Jake Sharland both making 42.

Ed Foster (5-67) and Ramanayake (4-30) then shone with the ball as Kenton could only reach 196 in reply, despite 90 from Charles Erdwin.

But North London are still stuck at the foot of the table despite enjoying a crushing nine-wicket win at home to Middlesex Tamil Sports and Social Club.

Sam Bardon (3-30) took a hat-trick and Yasir Hashmi claimed figures of 4-30 as the visitors were dismissed for just 93, and North London eased to 95-1 in reply.

Meanwhile, North Middlesex's hopes of being crowned Premier Division champions suffered a setback when they crashed to a 158-run defeat at home to fellow title hopefuls Ealing.

Although Chris Wakefield (38) and Ian Purdy (37) shared in a second-wicket stand of 66, Ealing found themselves struggling at 92-5 before Chris Pople (50), Leigh Parry (47) and Chris Glasper (31) came to their rescue to take the visitors up to a total of 244. Ed Bird (4-69) was the most successful bowler.

However, North Middlesex were in trouble from the start of their reply and never threatened to come close to their target as they were bowled out for 86 – with Sam Webber top-scoring with just 20. Elliot Opie (4-27) and Pople (3-20) impressed with the ball.

North Middlesex make the trip to Twickenham on Saturday, while Hornsey host Uxbridge, Highgate entertain Bessborough and North London go to Barnes.

Athletes' World Championship call-up

AN IMPRESSIVE total of six competitors from Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club have been named in the Great Britain squad for the forthcoming World Championships in Beijing.

The British selectors have announced a 62-strong squad for the showpiece event which gets under way later this month, and Enfield and Haringey have secured the second highest representation of any club in the country.

Rising sprint star Chijindu Ujah has been included in both the 100metres and the 4x100m relay following an impressive run of results which has seen him being crowned British champion over the distance for the first time before he equalled his personal best of 9.96seconds on his way to finishing fourth in the Sainsbury's Anniversary Games in Stratford.

Delano Williams has been selected in the 4x400m relay, while Margaret Adeoye and Bianca Williams will both run in the women's 200m.

Desiree Henry has been named in the women's 4x100m relay squad alongside Bianca Williams and Adeoye is joined in the women's 4x400m relay by recently crowned European junior champion Laviai Nielsen.
